

DETECTING PEAK SIGNALS

Abstract of the Disclosure

In one embodiment, the present invention includes an apparatus having a threshold detector with a current 5 comparator to determine if an input signal exceeds a threshold. The input signal may be obtained from a received optical signal and may be compared to a reference signal obtained from a hierarchical Schmitt trigger, in certain embodiments.